

NOTEBOOK BIOS:

IN THE RECEPTION:

- ON TOP OF THE NOTEBOOK PAGE:

I (Spencer Byrne) own this notebook. If you find this, please return. That means you too, Leon, stop snatching my stuff.

- SANDRA AXTON

A famous crime fiction author with an ambition. She got popular after publishing her first book "Quiet Streets Near Pandora's Avenue".

- HOTEL LEXICON

This place sure has been here for a while. Where the city meets the suburbs, Hotel Lexicon happily hosts everyone – families, businesspeople, travellers, thugs, and outlaws. And me and my friend Leon of course, Hotel Lexicon's bar is a lively place to stop by after a day of hard work.

Yet after what happened... It's truly a shame to see this place so quiet.

IN ROOM 1:

- JAY RAYNER

Jay was a part of Sapir's Hand – a local criminal group based on strong family ties. Sapir's Hand has a lot of influence over the city, and staying out of their way is strongly recommended.

Jay appreciated literature I suppose, and thus willingly participated in interviews held by Sandra Axton in the hotel bar.

However, Jay was murdered in this room a few days ago with Hotel Lexicon's letter opener.

- TERRY RAYNER

Terry is a known criminal, a ruthless guy from Sapir's Hand. He is Jay Rayner's brother, and very loyal to the entire family. I wouldn't annoy him.

IN ROOM 2:

- A HIRED KILLER

Hotel Lexicon... this place never disappoints with the amount of murders being prepared here.

Based on these items, whoever stayed in this room seems to be a professional killer.

Someone must have paid a great amount of money for this. Which means that someone must have had a strong motivation... I wonder what it might be.

IN ROOM 3:

- LEON VANES

Leon, my dear friend. My most loyal co-worker. A fellow detective. All tangled up in this mess...

Hotel Lexicon's bar was one of his favourite places to spend time at – after work of course.

I always thought it was just because it's a lively bar, a lot of people chatting and dancing, a few darker shadows near the walls for sure, but they never bothered us. We never bothered them.

Now I understand why.

IN THE HOTEL BAR:

- SANDRA AXTON

Sandra stayed in Hotel Lexicon while doing research for her second book. She interviewed people here in the hotel bar – this setting was of great inspiration for her.

Sandra had been gathering insider information from Sapir's Hand as well as from me – Spencer Byrne, your local detective happy to share the secrets of the underworld.

Oh and... We might have had a thing.

She is wrongly suspected of Jay Rayner's murder... Because of me.